THE OUTLAWS.

Donahoe's Story in Regard to the Killing of Boss Strong—the Death of Henry Berry Lowery—The Circumstances as Detailed by Henderson, of the New York Herald.

From the letters of A. B. Henderson, who was recently among the Robeson outlaws, which we find in the New York Herald of Tuesday, we glean the following facts in relation to the killing of Boss Strong and the death of Henry Berry Lowrey, knowing it will be perused with interest by our readers.

DONAHOE'S STORY OF KILLING STRONG.

"Last Thursday night, March 7, I reached the house of Andrew Strong, on the edge of Scuffletown, about ten miles from here, at twelve o'clock. I fixed a good blind about 150 yards from the house, and lying down I watched the rest of the night and all the next day, eating some provisions I had brought along. About half-past seven P. M. Friday Andrew Strong came out of the woods, and looking around him in all directions he went into the house, and directly came out and gave a low call, when Boss came out of the woods to the house; they were each armed with two rifles and two or three revolvers. A little after eight o'clock, when I thought they would be at supper, I slipped up to the house and looked in through the cat hole in the door, as I supposed they were eating their supper by the light on the hearth. Besides Andrew's wife, Flora and a Miss Cummings were there. I kept watching there until Boss laid down on the floor with his feet to the fire and his head towards me and commenced

PLAYING ON A MOUTH ORGAN.

Then I saw my chance, and I pushed the muzzle of my rifle (a Henry) through the cat hole until it was not over three feet from his head, took a steady aim by the light of the fire and shot. When I fired the women screamed and said:

'HE'S SHOT,' 'NO HE ISN'T,' 'YES HE IS,'

and I looked in as quick as I could get my gun out of the way. Boss' arms and legs had fallen straight from his body, and there was a little movement of the shoulders as if he was trying to get up. Andrew Strong was then standing and he stayed there until I left. He said to his wife, 'Honey, you go out and see what it is,' and opened the door opposite the one I was at and pushed her out. She came out, but did not come around to the side I was; but went in directly and said there was no body about. He sent her out again, telling her to look in the corners and jams, but before she had got well out he said, 'Come back, honey, he was blowing on that thing and it busted and blowed his head off,' and directly after he said, My God! he's shot in the head; it must have come from the cat hole,' and sent his wife out again, and I slipped off. When I returned the cat hole was shut up and the house was all dark. Then I came back to Shoe Heel and

IN THE SHADOW IN THE CORNER

GOT A FORCE TO GO AFTER THE BODY.

I watched at the cat hole a good half hour after I shot Boss and there was no sign of life after that movement of his shoulders. The next day when we went back we could not find the body nor any blood, but the floor had just been scrubbed and we asked what they had been scrubbing for, and they said they had a dead body in the house all night, but that Steve and Tom Lowrey and Andrew Strong had carried it off about an hour before. We searched the house and found a lot of boots, shoes, blankets, wine, brandy and cigars concealed about the house and in the woods. Boss has been

IN THE WOODS SINCE HE WAS FIFTEEN years old. I tell you he was a thousand times worse than Henry Berry Lowery was. He would ravish women, burn houses, abuse children and do anything else that is devillish if it was not for Henry Berry. I am not afraid to stay here now. I would like to have the reward that was offered for Boss, dead or alive. It is now over $6,000, and I think I ought to have it, for I know I killed him, and no person can ever find his body.'

THE DEATH OF HENRY BERRY LOWREY.

As this letter cannot be read by the people of this settlement before I have left it, the most important piece of information I have to communicate shall be given first. Henry Berry Lowrey, the notable chief of the notorious swamp outlaws is actually dead. This is denied by all of his comrades, and his relatives profess to be ignorant of his fate. But from evidence the most reliable, when connected with a well connected chain of circumstances, I am enabled to give you a correct account of

THE DEATH OF THIS ROBBER CHIEF.

Between February 13 and 16, in company with his Alter Achates, Boss Strong, Henry Berry Lowrey was ranging the country in the neighborhood of Moss Rock in search of some persons whom he had been informed were hunting him, while Steve and Tom Lowrey and Andrew Strong were stationed at a rendesvous on Lumber River, near the 'new bridge.' About one and three quarter miles from Moss neck station, within short gunshot of the road leading from Inman's Bridge to McNeill's mill, they discovered in the bushes a newly made 'blind' (a place of concealment or ambush made by intertwining the branches of the thickly grown bushes.) It was not then occupied, and Henry Berry, believing it had been recently made by one of his pursuers, who would shortly return to it, enconsced himself in it, while Boss made a blind for himself a short distance off, covering the road. But a few minutes after they had placed themselves in their respective positions the report of a gun was heard from Henry's hiding place, and when Boss, who waited to hear a word from his chief or an answering shot from an enemy, cautiously approached the spot Henry Berry Lowrey lay on his back, with one barrel of his shot gun discharged, and his nose, forehead and the WHOLE FRONT OF HIS HEAD BLOWN OFF.

The broken ramrod and missing wiper showed he had been trying to draw a load from his gun. Boss drew the body into a thicket, and notified his companions, who straightway buried him where, in all human probability, the eye of man will see him never.

Thus perished this remarkable man, and his death marks the dissolution of this most formidable body of desperadoes. The large sum of money he was said to be in possession of is also lost to the country, for no member of the band, not even Boss nor his wife, knew the whereabouts of his treasure chest. The remaining outlaws have made diligent search, but as yet have had their labor for their pains. Henry Berry was said to have had a good deal of money, besides his share of the proceeds of the Lumberton Bank, from which some thirty thousand dollars were taken. It appears to have been his habit of appropriating to his own use the lion's share of all money taken, giving his subjects the other booty.

CURING TOBACCO YELLOW.

The following letter is from Dr. N. M. Roan, of Caswell, to B. S. Guion, Lincoln, N. C.

Dear Sir: I presume you had reference to curing tobacco yellow, for which this section is so famous. It is a very nice process, and requires some experience, observation, and a thorough knowledge of the character and quality of the tobacco with which you have to deal, in order to insure uniform success. Much depends upon the character of the crop when it is taken from the hill. If it is of good size, well matured and of a good yellowish color, there is no necessity for [illegible] in the operation. As soon as the tobacco is taken from the hill and housed, we commence—with a low degree of heat, say, 95 to 100 Fahrenheit—'the yellowing or steaming process.' This is the first and simplest part of the whole process, and requires from 15 to 36 hours, according to the size and quality of the tobacco, and this degree of heat should be continued, until the leaf opens a lemon color and is nearly free from any green hue. When this point is reached, the heat should be gradually raised to 105 degrees, in order to commence drying the leaf; and here lies the whole difficulty in curing. (I mean drying the leaf.) The last degree of heat indicaced, should be continued five or six hours, when it should again be gradually raised to 110 degrees, and should be maintained at this point, until the tails or points of the leaves begin to curl and dry. Indeed it will probably be safest for beginners to continue this degree of heat until one-third of the leaf is dried. The temperature may then be gradually increased to 115 degrees and kept for several hours at that point, until the leaf begins to rattle when shaken, then again raise the heat to 120 degrees, at which point it should be continued until the leaf is dried, after which the temperature may be increased to 150 degrees to dry the stem and stalk; the latter should be blackened by the heat, before the curing is complete. Ordinarily, it requires from two and a half to five days to cure a barn of tobacco, dependent entirely on the size and quality. Put seven or eight plants on each stock, and place them eight inches apart on the tier poles. In the yellowing process, the door of the barn should be kept closed to exclude the air. When the point is reached for drying the leaf, the door may be opened occasionally and kept open from 20 to 30 minutes at a time, especially if the tobacco gets into a 'sweat,' as it is called, or becomes damp and clammy. The temperature is raised in the barn, by cautiously, from time to time, adding coal to the fires, which should be placed in small piles on the floor, in rows, allowing about five feet between each pile, which should contain at first a double handful of coal. In adding coal, you will soon learn the quantity necessary to be applied, by the effect produced. Avoid raising the heat hastily after the drying is commenced, lest the leaf should be scalded and reddened; on the other hand it should not be raised too slowly for fear of 'raising the grain,' or the leaf becoming spongy and dingy. Both extremes are to be avoided, and the skill here required to insure uniform success is to be acquired only by experience and observation. We frequently cut tobacco the latter part of the week, house it and suffer it to remain until the first of next week, that we may not violate the fourth commandment. If I had time and space, there are other points which might be mentioned If, however, I have succeeded in this crude and hasty manner, in giving you any suggestions which will aid you in your new enterprise, I shall be gratified, and it will give me pleasure to give you any further information in my power.

OPPRESSION OF THE SOUTHERN STATES.

A GREAT SPEECH FROM HON. D. W VOORHEES.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette gives the following synopsis of the splendid speech delivered in Congress, on Saturday, by that able and fearless champion of popular rights, Hon. D. W. Vorrhees of Indiana:

Mr. Voorhees, in opening referred to the condition of many of the States in the Union, which, he says, excites the unmingled pity and indignation of the civilized world. They are the theme of sorrowful and of bitter comment wherever the channels of human intelligence penetrate. They engage the attention of all the departments of the goverment. Executive proclamations spread evil things about them, and hurl every principle of their liberties, every muniment of their safety to the ground.

Congress enacts laws against them which utterly destroy every vestige of freedom, and forge and rivet on their helpless limbs the fetters of despotism. It also sends forth its powerful missionaries of mischief in the form of committees, backed by the money and the power of the government, whose labors are to blacken the character and the fame of their people under the guise of official investigations and official reports. The head of the Department of Justice, the late Attorney-General, who led his people into the war and then returned to plague and lay waste the hearthstones of his followers, superintended in person the inquisition and the torture inflicted upon the descendants of those who fought in the battles of the revolution.

The army of the United States, in a time of profound peace, has launched like a bolt of destruction into their midst. It is engaged in seizing, without sworn charge or warrant of law, the youth, the middle-aged, and the grayhaired grand sires, in the sanctuary of American homes, and driving them like herded beasts into crowded prisons. And the President himself, in his recent message, prepared, as he says, in haste, as if he had affairs of greater importance to engage his attention, yet found time to give his sanction to all this, and to [illegible] its accusation.

And so Mr. Voorhees proceeded to arraign the Republicans, charging that since peace came, seven years ago, that party has poured upon the unresisting and helpless South the floods of disorder, corruption, bankruptcy, crime, oppression, and ruin; that by its conduct and policies every blessing of free government has been scourged from the face of a country containing over twelve millions of people, and larger in extent than many of the foremost powers of Europe; by this party the constitution has been trampled under foot, dwarfed into a dead-letter, or widened and extended by fraudulent amendments, according as the unscrupulous purposes of a powerful party would be best promoted; from turret to foundation the Republican party have torn down the governments of eleven States; have rent all their local laws and machinery into fragments, and trampled upon their ruins. Mr. Voorhees described the ostracism and political punishments visited upon the old citizens of the South. Every man who, during the conflict between the sections, was clothed with the slightest responsibility, has been marked by the blight of ineligibility, and, like the leaper of old, it was made a crime for the people to again reach forth to him the hand of friendship.

Even the sacred instincts of human nature became disqualifications for office. The ties of kindred were made criminal, and he who gave a cup of cold water and a crust of bread to his thirsty and famished son, under arms for a cause which he believed to be right, and for which he was willing to die, was branded with dishonor and driven out from the councils of his countrymen. The loving mother who sheltered her weary and wounded boy, laid him in his own familiar bed at home once more, kissed his lips, wiped away the gathering dews of death, and with a broken heart closed his dear eyes forever, was condemned for those acts of angelic ministering, and incurred the penalties of confiscation. He who dismounted and gave his horse to a brother in the moment of danger and close pursuit; the sister who wrought and sent clothing to him on the toilsome march; the maiden who prayed for her lover as he laying dying in the Wilderness or at Stone river, all fell under a common curse. Even the white haired grandmother of four score years, whose youthful husband perhaps, was at the Cowpens, Eutaw Springs and Yorktown, or, may be, fought under Jackson at New Orleans in the war of 1812, was deprived of her pension, that small morsel of bounty from an ungenerous government, if her heart yearned or her aged hand was extended in sympathy to her children and her children's children on the plains of the South. A more sweeping and universal exclusion from all the benefits, rights, trusts, honors, enjoyments, liberties and control of a government was never enacted against a whole people, without respect to age or sex, in the annals of the human race. The disgraceful disabilities imposed upon the Jews for nearly eighteen hundred years by the blind and bigoted nations of the earth were never more complete or appalling.

The preroration of Mr. Vorhees was excellent, and to be thoroughly appreciated must be read in full.

ROTATION OF CROPS.

There can be no doubt a strict rotation of crops is necessary to entire success in this country; or, in fact, in any other country. And we may find a good reason for it laid down in the following propositions by a most eminent French agricultural chemist:

1. Every plant has a tendency to exhaust the soil.
2. All plants do not exhaust alike.
3. All plants of different kinds do not exhaust the soil in the same manner.
4. All plants do not restore to the soil the same quantity of manure.
5. All plants differently affect growth of weeds.

From these fundamental principles, the following conclusions may be drawn:

That however well a soil may be prepared, it cannot long nourish crops of the same kind in succession, without becoming exhausted, for every crop impoverishes a soil in proportion as more or less nutritious matter is consumed by the plant cultivated. Perpendicular rooting plants, and such as shoot horizontally, ought to succeed each other. Plants of the same kind should not return frequently in a circle of cropping; neither should two crops equally favorable to the growth of weeds succeed each other. Such plants as greatly exhaust the soil, as grains, should only be sown when the land is in good condition, and in proportion as a soil is found to exhaust itself by successive cropping, plants that are least exhausting should be cultivated.

Parrish and Dodge of the Sanitariums of Binghamton and Media to appear before that body and give a detailed history of Inebriate Asylums in this country, their system of treatment and its success. The doctors will probably accept the invitation, and if so, we may look out for Inebriate Asylums established in that country.

☞ A Mr. White of New York State has ten cows that eat all the old bones they can find. A natural instinct is said to lead cattle to eat bones when the pastures are deficient in the phosphates of lime. And if bones be brought home and reduced to a fine powder and mixed with salt and placed in a box in the barn-yard, the cows will lick them and derive great benefit, it tending to save their teeth, for one thing.

☞ A Miss Tennie Claflin is lecturing in New York on the 'Ethics of Sexual Quality' to an audience mostly of men with a mixture of 'roughs' and newsboys. She handled the relations of the sexes with a boldness of speech that left nothing to the imagination and that would have been suppressed by the police had it been paraded in the street. The audience cheered and pitched her flowers! Whither are we drifting?

☞ An operator at Zanesville, Ohio, attended church and got religion. An operator in the Cincinnati office heard of it, asked him about it, told him it was so, asked Cincinnati chap if he was a Christian, said 'no,' told him, 'Then to come to Christ, to kneel down right there and then and pray for himself, and that he should pray for him too.' Fellow answered 'all right,' and both kneeled down and prayed. The soul of the Cincinnati man was converted, and he is now a prominent member of the Young Mens' Christian Association.

THE NOMINEE.

We care not who he be so he is a MAN. Gen. Scales is our preference. But right here let us say that the man who served his country in the late war, if he be otherwise qualified, is the right man. It is all bosh about his not 'taking his seat.' If he is not banned there is no danger at all. And there are a plenty worthy and able men who made good soldiers that can 'take their seat.' We go for it on principle. While there's an old soldier to put on the tapis, we shall strenuously oppose a preference given to Judge this or Hon. that, simply because he holds a four years record of peace and artful dodging in his hand. We havn't forgotten that war, and it will take the trump of Gabriel and an insight into Eternity to make us forget it.

HUMPHREY MARSHALL.

This great Kentuckian died in Lonisville the other day of pneumonia and bronchitis. Mr. Marshall was educated at West Point and graduated in 1832. He served as a Lieutenant under Gen. Scott in the Black Hawk war, and in the war with Mexico he served under Gen. Taylor, was at Buena Vista, and marched his regiment by land from Memphis to Saltillo. In 1851 he was re-elected to Congress and in '52 resigned his seat and went as Minister to China. President Pierce recalled him. And in 1854 he was again elected to Congress by the Know Nothings by a majority of near three thousand. As a politician he was popular with the old Whig party throughout the South, and particularly so, in North Carolina. There have been children in this town named after him. He is dead. And like all men that die with a budget of old honors on their back, his knapsack will be opened, and a baggage of past virtues and distinctions heralded forth to the world.

ENTERPRISE.

It is enterprise what is needed in this State. Lazy and puerile politicians who make their living by their gab and who skim off the froth of promotion by stirring to the bottom the dregs of bad passion in the working masses, are proving themselves a besom to anything like thrift and prosperity among the people.

A political excitement that's entirely dependent upon such stimulus as personal detraction and slander and that knows no well defined point of difference save a social and sectional hate will eat like a hectic flush the life and vitality out of any country. It is an evil omen of the enterprise of a community when its men of wealth are on their tenantless possessions satisfied with merely reading strong partizan papers and honeing out strong and bitter political curses. And with such example set them the working masses are too prone to give up work where no work is encouraged them, to risk no enterprise where capital is against them, and to fall into a sort of semi-brawling political indolence that is never busy but when mouthing the state of the country or clapper-clawing the oratorical gyrations of some "curled darling" who essays to make a political speech.

For ourself, the Junior, we would prefer having forty enterprising men in this county like W. T. Blackwell at Durhams, than a legislature full of Clays and Calhouns.

HERALD CORRESPONDENT.

Henderson, the 'swamp angel' correspondent of the New York Herald, weighs one hundred and fifteen pounds and seems formed by nature for nossing out an item. This young Proteus chameleonized himself into a regular first class mulatto down in Robeson, and made himself so much at home the first night at Mrs. Rhody Lowery's, the wife of the bandit chief, and who he describes as young, yellow, and pretty, and wearing number 2 shoes, that she soon taught him how to 'rub snuff.' His letters are interesting, though we suspect his tale of the death of Lowery to be a trumped one. We are not despairing that this correspondent will return to his original chrysalis state and give the whitemen of Robeson more respectful mention than he has yet made. At present he is assuming a nice yellow.

OUR JUDGES.

The ermine of the Judiciary in this State is very sadly worn. We notice in a recent court held by Judge Watts in Pitt county a pleasant little war of words between His Honor and the prisoner at the bar. The Judge sentenced him to three years in the Penitentiary. The prisoner promised to 'meet him in hell.' Judge smiled and said 'take him out.' Judge slept on it and had prisoner hauled up before him next day. Then the Judge made his joke. Sentenced prisoner to ten years, and smiled and said, 'Now, gentlemen, I have exhausted the power of the Judiciary.' Prisoner still persevered in wanting to 'meet the Judge in hell.' Evident that the prisoner, anyhow, thought the Judge fitter for hell than a place on the Bench. Ex uno disce omnes.

RICHMOND.

We take from Whig, Dispatch and Enquirer:

Pizzini sold Easter egg shells decorated with confectionery last Monday.

Good bricklayers are now getting $3.50 per day here, and there is not one, who wants work, out of employment.

On Saturday morning Major John Jones Jr., Attorney at Law, and Mr. F. A. Judge, agent of the Howe sewing machine company in Richmond, were arrested on a warrant procured by Detective Dan Wrenn, charging them with being about to break the peace. They were required to give security in the sum of $1,000.

HALIFAX C. H.

The Times office wants a printer.

Shad sell lower in Danville than in Petersburg.

NEWBERN.

We take from the Commerce and Republican:

The Gaston House omnibus has a conductor in uniform with a 'regulation cap.'

Chas. M. Fields has left Newbern for Texas.

John S. Palmer, special agent of the Newbern Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has arrived in the city. He won't allow a boy to pull off a fly's leg.

A no horned cow for stealing cabbages out of a crate was the latest 'arrest.'

An idle little negro, who had nothing else to do, was before the Police court for throwing ancient 'hen fruit' against the sides of the market house.

WILMINGTON.

We take from the Journal and Star.

The ladies are giving Amateur concerts for the poor of the city.

One hundred and ten thousand dollars of stock taken the first day in the Dawson Bank.

A young gent got twenty dollars in greenbacks at De Castro's entertainment as a 'gift.'

De Castro will give away to-night $30 and a fine live pig.

Jane Hines is the name of the colored woman who recently gave birth to the child with horns on its head, at a house on Castle, between Fourth and Surry streets. The child is dead.

RALEIGH.

We take from Banner of Temperance Era, We Know and News;

The Southern Baptist Convention meets in Raleigh the ninth of May.

Fraps invited brother Ramsay of the 'Temperance' 'in' to take some fresh lager. Brother Ramsey 'went in,' but vows 'he didn't take anything.'

The 'Friend of Temperance' booked a hundred new subscribers in one week.

Doepp & Jones, the accomplished druggists, besides having a mammoth soda water apparatus, have added to it a patent bottling machine, and are prepared to furnish towns with fresh bottling soda. Dr. Doepp is the only graduated Pharmaceutist in the State.

NORFOLK.

We take from the Journal and Virginian:

A turkey sells for two dollars. Shad $1.50 a pair. Eggs 20 cents a dozen. Apples $3 a bushel.

Says the Virginian:

The Hon. Josiah Turner, editor of the Raleigh Sentinel, and orator general of the Conservative party in our sister State, is in town, putting up at the National Hotel. Our distinguished visitor is sanguine of success in the Old North State, and for a Ku-Klux is one of the most polished gentlemen we have ever met.

CHARLOTTE.

We take from the Democrat:

A correspondent speaking of a recent lecture delivered in that city by the Rev. E. H. Harding of Milton says:

It was my good fortune to hear the Lecture delivered by Rev. E. H. Harding at the Female Institute on the evening of the 25th ult. I could heartily wish that we had more frequent opportunities of listening to such rich intellectual treats, and that our people manifested more taste and fondness for that kind of entertainment and instruction. Mr. Harding is a Presbyterian Minister. His subject was John Wesley. I think all conceded that his analysis of the character of Wesley was singularly fair and able, and all were highly entertained and often amused at the very graphic accounts given by the learned and skillful lecturer of the curious origin and wonderful success of Methodism in the remarkable career of its great founder. I hope Mr. H. will repeat his Lecture throughout the State.

THURSDAY.....APRIL, 6 1872.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE.

There will be a Meeting of the "Democratic Conservative" party of Orange county, held in the Court House in Hillsboro on Saturday the 13th inst, for the purpose of appointing Delegates to the State Convention to be held in Greensboro on the 1st of May next—and also Delegates to the district Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress for this district. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

By order of the County,
Ex. Committee.

April 1st, 1872. 2-t

New Church.

A new Presbyterian church is being built at Mebaneyville. Mr. Clark, a carpenter from this place, is at work on it.

Nearly a Fire.

In putting down a carpet at the house of Mr. J. B. Paul near this town the carpet was a little damp and they spread it on top of a shed to the house for the sun to dry it. It seems that the carpet had already been burnt by a coal that popped on it and was burning when they put it on the shed. The family was soon after admonished by the whole roof to the house being on fire. Hard work to put it out.

The Bingham School.

This flourishing school now numbers some eighty odd students. A new Professor has been added to the corps of able instructors, Prof. Hope, an Englishman educated in the finest schools of the old country and a thorough master of all the languages. He has already established a German class among the boys, and we understand will soon get up a class in French. We have the word of a refined and educated Frenchman that the Professor speaks the French language with fluency and ease.

Wanted Pay.

Doctor McKoy, negro, appeared before the Commissioners Board last Monday and wanted pay for doing "Guard duty" here three years ago, at an election. That he was appointed by Gov. Holden. One of the Board addressed the President and told him that the "doctor" was good enough for a hoe handle, but as a "guard" he thought him a failure. That he would break his neck running from a Horse's tail. That he sent him to catch his pony one day and that the "doctor" come back crying fit to break his heart, said, "the pony had bit his lip." The "doctor's" claims were not allowed because the former sheriff was dead, and he had no certificate from him.

Change of Schedule.

The Schedule on the North Carolina Central was changed last Sunday. The mail train arrives here from Raleigh at 9-33 P. M. and stops two minutes. It leaves Charlotte at 7-30 P. M. and arrives here at 4-40 in the morning. Stops two minutes. The Freight leaves Goldsboro at 3-15 A. M. and arrives here at 2-15 in the evening. Leaves Charlotte at 8-00 P. M. and arrives at Hillsboro at 10-17 in the morning.

Radical Meeting.

About fifteen revenue officers and near a hundred negroes had a radical pow-wow at the Courthouse last Saturday. It was of the coarser nature of all political meetings—full of gas and nonsense. We heard a republican, white, from Raleigh, curse out the "Convention" to a prominent negro of the town and pronounce it a "damn fraud." He said that the Kirklands and Pools of Chapel Hill manipulated the whole thing "and fooled the poor darkies to death." During the meeting one of the white delegates got seriously choked on striped candy and was adjusted by a doctor called in. After the meeting a white delegate and a negro one had a regular "set to" over a bet on "touching a little shaggy dog's nose". The negro got the best of it. This was about all done.

Gone North.

Mrs. Owen advises her friends that she has gone to New York and will not return before the 25th of this month. She will remain three weeks in this grand headquarters of Fashion and her exquisite taste will have ample time and a wide field to select a most choice and fashionable stock of Millinery. We have never known a town more fortunate than Hillsboro in its taste and character of this peculiar line of business. We daresay she is the most stylish Milliner in the State, and her return will be hailed with delight by all the ladies who are anxious for the latest Fashions.

Remember this Firm.

We never see a chap with his "coat on a good deal," or maybe a pair of pants that "are too short enough," but we think what a pity that all our country merchants don't buy their Ready Made Clothing of Weisiger & Co in Richmond. We have known this firm now, intimately, for three years, and never have we seen or heard of a shoddy suit of Clothes in their emporium. Their entire stock, even the cheapest, is of the best wear and strongest material, and their respective sizes always fit, and fit well, fashionably, and of the newest style. We heartily endorse the House and we would impress it upon the Trade of this and the Border Section to buy their stock in this line of these clever gentlemen. And we intend to keep their names prominently before the Trade till the season is over, such confidence do we have in the bargains they sell.

The Field and Staff and Captains of the 12th N. C. Regiment. Who can tell the thing

Col. Joseph H. Hyman is now farming near Memphis Tennessee. Success to him. He stuck to us.

Lt. Col. Henry A. Rogers was shot by a shell in the head at Bennett's Ford, in September, 1863, and had to be retired from the service. A brave good man, and he is now teaching school in Person county.

Elijah B. Withers promoted from Major and surrendered as Lieutenant-Colonel in charge of the regiment, is now the Representative from Caswell. Never drank a drop, and was as brave as a lion and as cool as an ice house in the fight.

George W. Anderson, Adjutant, went back on himself and his big red moustache and deserted. He was brought back under guard, and would have been shot, but Grant and Appomattox overtook us. Married in Pennsylvania.

Charles D. Hill, Quartermaster, made a splendid one, was from Milton, and now a Commission Merchant in Richmond, of the firm of Hill and Skinker.

John H. McAden, Surgeon, afterwards Brigade Surgeon and one of the best in the Army, now a Druggist in Charlotte.

Willis G. Stephens, Assist Surgeon, now a doctor in Caswell.

R. H. Ward, a Captain, now in Rockingham. There was no better fighter. Capt. Ward was shot in the leg at the Wilderness and retired.

John A. Fuqua, Captain, Dentist now in Wilson. Accomplished and gallant.

Thomas A. Martin, pious and brave. Dead of consumption.

Thomas T. Lawson, Captain, the last man to his duty, died at Orange Courthouse in '64 just after marrying a sister of Gen. Scales. His bride was at his death-bed. He died in a country house just a short distance from the camp. Capt. H. H. Moir took charge. A truer and purer man never lived. He now lives out west.

Hugh L. Guerrant, Captain, went thro' it all and surrendered at Appomattox. Now a clerk in a shoe store in Danville.

W. W. Robinson, Captain, shot in the heel, 21st of May, 1864, at Spottsylvania. Brave, good officer, now farming in Mecklenburg county.

Frank Williams, Captain, living now in Arkansas. Jule Rosseler, his brave lieutenant, led his company home as their Captain. Capt. Rosseler is now merchandising in Charlotte.

Ludolph B. Henderson, Captain, brave as a lion, fought it out, and now a Dentist at Yanceyville.

Thomas C. Evans, Captain, at present this writer.

Willie G. Woods, Captain, fought like a hero and suffered in prison.

Stand Firm.

Stand firm, young boy, you are poor, we know, maybe hungry and ragged, and the world passes by you as a panorama without so much as a nod or a smile. But stand firm, there's a friend within you that feeds even the sparrow on the snow, and that Friend is the voice of Him that made you, as it tells you to be honest, to work, to be polite, to be truthful and sober. No matter how hard this would us, push you, get in to stick to it, and you will come out a model man, respected, and loved and admired by all. Stand firm, young girl, let not rags and poverty, the love of dress and the thirst for money tempt you to droop the eyelid and fall into the bottomless pit that yawns for fallen woman. That was a beautiful instance in Jim Fisk's life when he met the young girl on his Opera steps, and she told him "money she must have for her mother and herself," and he asked her "if she could get money honestly, if she preferred to do it," and she burst into sobs and told him, "Oh, yes, Colonel, that I would." And he asked her, "if she could get the money, if she'd promise to live an honest and unstained life," and she promised, and he made her mother comfortable, and educated the beautiful young girl for a music teacher, and she is now "as pure as the beautiful snow." Call Jim Fisk bad! He was bad in many things, but that one deed in his life is a star set in the heavens, that no matter how deep into Hades he has fallen, will ever shine comfort upon him in his misery. We commend his example in this particular to some of our readers.

House Burnt.

Sim Harris, a negro living near South Lowell, had his house burnt the other day and everything in it. He and wife were away and his children at play, at the time.

A Cutting Scrape.

We understand that Jas. Boyd Esq of Graham and a Mr. Foust had a difficulty the other day, and Mr. Boyd was cut badly with a pocket knife on the hand and wrist, the blade grazing his neck and cutting his clothes down in front. Mr. B. is a republican, and we learn got insulted at something Mr. Foust said of "selling out," and struck him. We give this version as we learned it.

Why He wasn't Hung.

He was splendid. Tall, well knit, straight as an arrow, and his eagle eye gleamed upon the rabble crowd, as with haughty head thrown back, he looked defiance and dared the hangman to do his duty. The noose was made ready, now it shadows his head, then suddenly is jerked aback, and the hangman shouts, "He has on a Spence's collar!" The crowd arose as one man and declared him free. For it was never known for a man to be hung in a collar and cravat that he bought of E. B. Spence & Son in Richmond.

An Incident of Gen. Lee's Death.

Private Correspondence.

The photographer in Lexington had just prepared his negative in the printing box and placed it in the sun to print an impress—when—crack! went the glass, and the negative was split half in two. Just then a friend came in and told the death of Gen. Lee! This is a fact.

TOWN DIARY.

NICE beef eight cents by the quarter.

WALT Thompson caught six fine Chubs last Monday.

FLETCH Parks, the handsome clerk, has had his picture taken to send to "somebody" in Oxford.

MR. BELL of the Orange Hotel keeps nice fresh shad on ice and sells them for eighty cents a pair. He gets them from Newbern by Express.

ONE of the little Clark boys in the country was led to town by his mother with his hand all bandaged up to have a large fishing hook that he had stuck in his hand cut out. Mind how you handle 'em, boys.

AT last Hillsboro has a first class Photograph Gallery. It is over Parks' store and is run by Mr. Blount, the best photographer we ever saw. His pictures are up to life. We recognize several old Caswell friends among his specimens. If you want the best picture you ever did have, go and get it.

long and favorably known to the public, and have engaged the services of Capt. Jed. Carter, of Halifax Va., as General Superintendent at this Warehouse, who will be pleased to see and serve his friends and the public generally. Having two Warehouses they are apt to have an early sale at one of them every day, and the Clerks assisting each other greatly facilitate the dispatch of business, and in getting off the Planters. E. J. Bell of Danville, Clerk at Graves' Warehouse, Nat. Johnston of Caswell, and W. S. Allen, of Rockingham, Floor Managers at these houses, invite their friends to give them a call.

HEAD & BAKER'S
MEDICINALLY PURE
COD LIVER OIL,
The Best, Purest and most acceptable to the Stomach:
THIS COD LIVER OIL we import direct, and claim that it is superior to any other sold in this Market, because it is selected by our own Agent at the Fisheries, and made only
FROM HEALTHY AND FRESH LIVERS.
It has never been filtered or expressed, and thus deprived of its most valuable therapeutic properties, nor exposed to atmospheric changes, which render other Oils branid and unpalatable it has never been mixed or adulterated with inferior and cheaper Oils to reduce the cost at a sacrifice of its quality nor handled by any other parties than the fishermen and ourselves.
We have the testimony of Physicians who prescribe it, and of patients who have taken it, that it is more acceptable to the stomach and more easily assimilated than any other Oil.
We guarantee it to be entirely pure and fresh, free from rancidity, and fully possessing all of the wonderful remedial properties claimed for the BEST COD LIVER OIL.

BALTIMORE, JAN. 18TH, 1872.
Messrs. G. Ober & Sons:
GENTS:—At the solicitation of Messrs. Hill & Skinker, Genl. Agents, at Richmond Va., for the sale of your fertilizing compound, we left our homes for the express purpose of investigating thoroughly the character and manufacture of your various manures. We had previously learned that you had, at all times, invited the Planter to visit your works, inspect material used, and mode of manufacture. We were not prepared to expect so full an exhibit, and we are more than pleased to say, that every facility has been afforded to us to make complete our examination. We have visited your extensive works, located a Locust Point, in Baltimore, and through your open and candid exhibition, in conjunction with your excellent Foreman, we must express ourselves as fully repaid for our visit, and amply satisfied of the value of your manures, and integrity of manufacture. We are convinced that the choicest material is used of Fertilizing character, combined skilfully and carefully. It is all important to Planters to know whereof they are using in this age of imposture, and no business is more in bel to abuse than in the manufacture of manures, the sad experience of thousands of Planters. Upon a full and thorough examination we are determined to use your manures, and earnestly recommend and invite our Planters to join us in the distribution of what we conceive to be entitled to merit and confidence. Your sales as exhibited on your books and testimony of agencies selling for years is further convincing proof.
